J. D. Carmichael,

OF VOLUSIA

Has Just Been Made Public by the Editor Gazette-News: Commissioner of Agriculture. 2080 Gain in Five Years.

B. E. McLin, Commissioner of Agriculture, yesterday made public the results of the census enumeration of the various counties of Florida taken last summer.

Volusia county shows an increase of 2080 over the census of 1900. Ac cording to the report, the total mum ber of white persons in the county is 7,267; colored, 4,813; total, 12,083. The census of the county in 1900 was 10,003.

The report gives in detail the population of all towns, and shows Daytona as having 2,199 souls within her domain, as against 1,690 in 1900. DeLand is credited with 1,496, as against 1,119 five years ago. Daytona Beach has 233; Seabreeze 203; both the latter towns were incorporated since 1900, hence the increase does not snow. Orange City has 350 persons, or lifteen less than it had five years ago. Ormond is credited with 689, against 505 in 1900. New Smyrna is given at 750; the population in 1900 was

Many of readers will, perhaps justly, say that the population of Daytona is much too low. The Gazette-News has several times suggested that the city take a careful census, and we believe that if the matter was taken up by the Board of Trade and other influential citizens, the City Council could be induced to consider the matter.

BANK FOR WHY NOT TELL WHOLE STORY?

The only argument used against D. P. Smith in this campaign, and, so far as I have been able to see, the only reason advanced by Mr. Osteen and his friends why Mr. Smith should not be re-elected, is that he has held the office for a number of

Now, to my mind this is about the weakest argument that could be used -if it even can be called an ar gument. My experience in busi ness affairs has been that the longer a man fills any position the more valuable he is; he knows the ins and outs of his work, and of course can perform his duties more satisfactorily than a new man, or one not conversant with his work. Now take it, that a public office is in measure the same. What we want from our public servants is efficient performance of duty - It is not matter of sentiment, and the sooner we divest sentiment from public affairs and put them on a purely business foundation, the better it will be for us and for the country

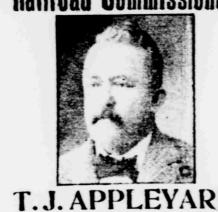

I hold that Mr. Smith's knowledge of the affairs and business of the office of Collector is rather an argument for than against him. familiar with the duties of the office can give as good service, and do as efficient work, as a man who has performed the duties and knows every detail of the business of the

Mr. Appleyard and the Corporations. (From the Tampa Tribune, April 26.)

The imbecility and dense igno rance displayed by one or more south Florida papers regarding the andidacy of T. J. Appleyard, of Lake City, for railroad commis sioner, is so absurd that thinking people do not consider it a minute consequently little attention should be paid to it. But for fear a few voters who are not posted relative to State politics may take the matter seriously, is the cause of this article.

The opposition to Mr. Appleyard is industriously circulating circulars throughout the State wherein the Lake City editor is characterized as a corporation" candidate. The Tribune has been a reader of Mr. Appleyard's paper for a number of years, and it has never espoused the cause of the corporations against the people In fact, Mr. Appleyard's whole career as a journalist is like an open book, and those who have watched his course have always placed him on the side of the people against corporate influences and power, and the unjust attack made upon him by a few personal enemies and political opponents will prove to be the greatest boomerang that has been sprung in this campaign

Mr. Appleyard is not what a few people would like him to be in order to hold an office in this State, He has never been accused of being a Populist or Socialist, but he is and has always been a conservative Democrat, and a good one at that. If every aspirant for public office was as conscientious, fearless, loyal, able and true as Mr. Appleyard, this campaign would be composed of the most honorable set of candilates that has ever aspired for public

The imputation that he is the candidate of the clique is one of those tantalizing things that all honorable men are compelled to submit to when they seek to become public officials, but if the people who are endeavering to defeat him will treat him as fair as he will treat his oppo gize to the public for the monumental fabrications sent broadcast over the State for the specific purpose of defeating one of the most
